* A board meeting was scheduled for May 18th, but at the last minute several board members who originally indicated that they would attend told us that they wouldn't be able to attend after all (although the meeting had been on the calendar all year). Because of this, we weren't able to establish a quorum. We were told to count those people as "absent" on that date, even though a meeting didn't actually take place. We went ahead and counted those who said they could come as "present."
